Busicary in Library-Street.—The residence of a man named Godlieb Holtzheimer, located in Liberty-street, near Elm, was feloniously entered, night before last, and robbed of several articles of wearing apparel and a watch worth about $20. The burglars aroused the inmates before their departure, but they left no traces by which they could be discovered.

PERSONAL.—We have received a note from Charlie F. Munroe, of Longworth-street, requesting us to state that he is not the Charles Monroe who was arrested last Sunday, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and fined the next morning in the Police Court. We of course know nothing of the Monroe family, or its residence, but presume the statement of this member of it may be relied upon; for if he was not arrested he certainly ought to be aware of the fact.

An Editor's Pocket Picked at the Theater.

An Indiana editor, while on a visit to this city, had his pocket picked of a gold watch and chain valued at $160, on Tuesday night, at the National Theater. The watch had a hunting case with white face and steel hand, Johnston & Co. makers, Liverpool; names on the face, initials "J. G. D." on the back. The owner will handsomely reward any one who will return it.

CINCINNATI TROTTING PARK—THE RACE TODAY.—A trotting match will take place this afternoon at the Cincinnati Trotting Park, between b. g. "Bolly Lewis," s. m. "Lady Rockey," and br. m. "Lady Utley," for a purse and stake of $200, mile heats, best three in five, to harness. If we may judge from the previous performances of these horses, which are equally matched in speed, this will be one of the most interesting and closely-contested races of the season. The trotting will come off at half-past three o'clock; and cars will leave the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad Depot at half-past two, by Columbus time, which, it will be remembered, is seven minutes faster than that of this city. that of this city.

OUTRAGEOUS ASSAULT—A WOMAN BADLY SCALDED BY BOILING COFFRE.—Justice Harris yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of a man named Oliver Wozencraft, who resides on the Colerain Pike, near Groesbeck Postoffice, for assault with intent to kill a woman mamed Elizabeth Harrison. The woman named Elizabeth Harrison. The offense was committed in this city, last Sunday, at which time, for some cause that does not yet appear, the man threw a large quantity of boiling coffee into the face of the woman, scalding her so severely that it is thought she cannot live. One of her eyes is burned entirely out, and her neck and chest wounded in such a manner that, even if she recover, both will be disfigured for life. We have seldom heard of so malicious an assault as this, and we heartily hope the offender may be arrested and brought to justice.

INBUMAN A77AIR—A DYING MAN THRUST four of First House and Arabonsub—A young man, about twenty-eight years of age, named James Fallon, was picked up, yeater day morning, on the hill-side east of Deercreek and taken to the Commercial Hospital in the worst stage of that most loathiouse disease, the small-pox. He stated that after becoming ill, the family with whom he resided after learning the nature of his disease, and being exceedingly fearful that they would become infected by it, carried him out of the house to the place where he had been found and there left him, he thought, to die. We were umble to learn the names of the perpetrators of this inhuman affair, but have no doubt that they would be been fitted if an incarnation of the small-pox, or some other equally disgusting disease would find its way income the most skeptical.

The Man who Jumped Out of the Winnow.—Edmund Derrough, the individual who, a short time ago, while in a state of temporary insanity, jumped out of a window in the the Court-house, was brought in from the Hospital; his mental condition improved, but his foot still so injured from his fall that he was unable to walk. A sum of about $700, deducting Hospital fees, was returned to him. When last before the Court he labored under the delusion that some persons contemplated an assault on his life; and another trial being then in progress before the Court, in which allusion was made by one of the witnesses to the use of a pistol, he supposed the statement disclosed a contemplated assault on him, and rushing for the window, he jumped out to escape the imagined assault.

Univers States Court.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday, in the case of Lea & Leavitt, of this city, assignees of the Norcross patent for circular saw-mills, against Blandy & Blandy, of Zanesville, for infringement of patent, the jury returned a vardict for the defendants. The whole question turned upon the construction given to the patent by the Court. Judge Leavitt held that the patent, although ambiguous, must be considered to be the combination of three things, and that the use of one of them by things, and that the use of one of them by defendants would be no infringement. The plaintiffs gave notice of a bill of exceptions, to take the case to the Supreme Court.

PHENE LAMP.—A boy about fifteen years of age, was severely burnt yesterday by the explosion of a camphene lamp. He was at age, was severely barnt yesterday by the ex-plosion of a camphene lamp. He was at work at Wiswell's, on Fourth-street, between Walnut and Vine, and, in attempting to fill a lamp, the fluid ignited, burning his head and face quite severely, although not danger-ously.

Tem Sayera's Phrenelogical Developments.

A distinguished London phrenelogist who examined the champion's head, says his development shows how faithful nature is to herself, not only in the formation of his brain, but in that of his physical system. His temperament shows a close, compact, dense, tough, enduring, elastic organization; no way bulky, but indicating that compactness and texture of muscle which so distinguish the fine compact muscle of the racehorse from that of the draught horse. Indeed, his physiological characteristics show mingled vivacity and capability for continued exertion. His complexion is very uncommon except among the gipsies—it is a kind of red olive color. The expression of his features is lively, showing animal vivacity; the eye quick and keen, but there is nothing of the mental expression in his face. The formation of the head is strikingly marked. It is narrow in the regions of the reflective faculties and idealty, and gradually grows wider back to combativeness, and rises high in the region of firmness, self-esteem, love of approbation. Indeed, his very large combativeness, self-esteem, love of approbation and firmness, give pluck and bull-log courage, and the ambition to be the most distinguished in the display of those qualities.

As Ingenious Hen-Fecked Husband.
Colonel Jones and Major Smith lived in Texas in 1833, and may live there yet for anght I know. They were both men of property, owned large plantations, were good citizens, kind neighbors, and extremely popular. They were men of tried courage, had been engaged in many a skirmish with the Indians. Like most men of that day and country, Jones and Smith would occasionally got on a spree, and their rollers were often protracted until late in the night. Their pleasure on such occasions was frequently dampened by the thought of their wives at home, who, like Tom O'Shanter's good dame, sat nursing their waith to keep it warm. One night, after having kept up their froit until a late hour, they returned home, when Colonel Jones found his wife waiting for him with a countenance which for told a storm. The Colonel, whose field had not a few with white leading the control of the day and any strength of the waiting for him with a countenance which for told a storm. The Colonel, whose field had not prove the plantation of his better haif instead of going to bed he took as each and resting his eboves on his knees with his face in his land, seemed to be completely absorbed in grief, sighing heavily, and uttering such exclam

Singular Shooting of a Woman in New Orleans.—Catharine Griffin was standing at a street-corner in New Orleans, recently, talking with some other woman, when her sister Bridget, having sat down on a wheel-barrow, a very well dressed and handsome man came up and began tumbling her about and at last upset her in the dirty gutter. At this stage of the proceeding Catharine and another woman became somewhat excited, and picking up some lumps of mud or earth, threw it at the man, who no sooner saw the mud spatter over his coat than drawing a pistol he fired at Catharine, the ball taking effect in her stomach. The man darted into a coffee-house and disappeared. Catharine is very seriously wounded and may not recover.

A TRIAD OF OLD PROPER.—There is a family residing near Liberty Corner in Somerset County, N. J., composed of three persons—a man and his wife and wife's mother, whose united ages amount to two hundred and sixty-two years and ten months. The mother was one hundred years old on the 15th ult. She is habitually cheerful and happy, and enjoys an excellent memory. Two days before completing her hundredth year she answered correctly every question in the Weatminster Shorter Catechism. She has lived to see seven generations—two above and four to see seven generations—two above and for below her own.

BROKEN BONES NOT DISCOURAGING TO MAYSHONY.—Curtis Stam, of Mansylle, was married to Miss Sarah J. Winslow, of Madison, Wis., a few days since. On the morning of the intended nuptials, Stam started from his residence to that of his affianced bride. When near the "Mile Strip School House," as it is called, his horse ran "sway with him, overturned the carriage, and threw ouf the prospective bridegroom, breaking both bones of his left arm. He, however, procured the services of a surgeon, the bones were set, and at the appointed hour he presented himself, and was duly married, as per announcement.

A BRAUTIUM. FRENCH WOMAN.—Gabrielle d'Estrees, whom Dreux de Radier portrays, "was the most lovely woman, without dispute, in France. Her hair was of a beautiful blonds cendrey her eyes blue and full of fire, her complexion was like alabater; her nose w. "sped and aquilines a mouth filled with pearly "and lips upon which the God of love perps. "dwelt; a stately throat and perfect bust; a ... ler hand; in short, she possessed the deportment of a goldess such were the charms which none could gate upon with impunity." impunity.

As Extensive Mall.—The "Charlotte Furnesce," at Middleboro, Mass., has been in operation one hundred and they genes. It is owned by Jesse Muclock, employs eighty hands, runs full tune, and will make $60,000 the present year.

A Neono Whirepp to Dears.—Reany, Burnett, a free negro, died in Dahville, Va., a few days since, from a whipping received from Charles T. Clay, the overseer in the saw-mill where he worked. Clay was arrested.
